Subject: Hi

You suck. . . It is absolutely unnecessary to mail anything to Chuck. My work ethic is very different from my co-workers, I give 110% in everything I do. But if you really want to send a letter to Chuck, I insist you send a copy to Julie Nassif, Division Director. At least you will get credit for your hard work. Put your name in her presents and I will make sure she understands your dedication and commitment to your work. I am definitely not going to take the credit alone.

Every word in my email was true. There are a couple of things people who really know me understand. . I work hard, I do not bullshit (ok, at least try not to), I give credit to people who deserves it and try not to take a lot of things for granted. There are few people that take their jobs seriously, it is nice to meet and work with those people.

You do not need to apologize for being upset. Venting is good . . . just do not make any rash decisions. I totally understand what it like to think that you have disappointed people, but you have to realize that they are not in your shoes and it was beyond your control. In your line of work, there will be plenty of opportunities for you to shine, it is just a matter of time. There will always be anxiety and frustration in your work, but be patient and continue to put the same hard work and dedication that I saw and you will succeed. I know this sounds like a freaking hallmark greeting card. When I was a teenager, I had someone tell me those exact words and it has made me who I am today.

I think I got 4 samples done on Friday and the rest of the day I was spent answering the phone pertaining to cases that I have done. All these cases, that we would never have being involved in we are being called into court. I know some of the DAs and Julie met with the AG on Friday, we will see what that decision will be. You're right, it is going to be tough. I use to joke with one of my coworkers, that I will need to keep a suit in my car with amount of samples I do. Now, it is not so funny . . esp. since I do not enjoy going to court. Oh well, what can we do. I think I am going to volunteer to do all the Federal cases. We have trained to guys well. . . . Just Kidding.

Enjoy the rest of the weekend. . . Good Luck with everything.

PS: When you get upset and frustrated, there is always M&Ms, at least my cure all is chocolate. But just know you have a friend if you need to talk or anything.

Thx,

Annie
